

Disabled guests in the hotel

In the light of the current regulations, all hotels with a minimum standard of three stars have rooms adapted for disabled guests. These are rooms with a larger usable space, with a wider door, more space in the bathroom, useful handrails near the shower and toilet.

Typically, this type of room is connected by a door to another room. The door can be opened if the guest has arrived with more people, e.g. family or guardian.

Information on whether there are facilities for people with disabilities in a given hotel can be quickly found in the information about additional services available at the hotel, posted on eSky websites.
